

WAR IN BALKANS SEEMS ALMOST A CERTAINTY NOW

Fugitives Are Flocking Into Burghas From the Disabled Districts in Macedonia.

TERRIBLE TURKS

Have Created a Reign of Terror Throughout the Whole of Eastern Turkey.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.) Burghas, Eastern Roumelia, Sept. 22.—Fugitives from the disturbed districts of Macedonia and Adrianople are flocking here for protection and safety. They are now fully eight thousand fugitives in the neighborhood and more are coming in daily. They report an awful state of affairs in the districts which they left. The territory between Adrianople and the Balkan mountains is being a total change. The Turks instituted a reign of terror and the male population has gone to the hills, leaving the women and children in a starving condition in the villages or woods.

Must Stop Massacres. To add to the difficulties in the way of an amicable adjustment of the trouble between the two nations Bulgaria is asserted on seemingly reliable authority to have made an exceedingly brusque reply to Turkey's note asking for Bulgarian assistance in effecting a peaceful settlement.

The principalities has informed the Sultan, according to the Dnevnik, that no overtures can be considered until the Macedonian massacres are stopped, Turkish troops withdrawn from the frontier, peace and protection guaranteed to villagers desiring to return to their homes, amnesty promised to political offenders and such governmental reforms introduced as will satisfy Macedonia and Adrianople.

Public Opinion Demands War. "If the present situation continues," the Dnevnik asserts that the reply concluded, "the Bulgarian government will be compelled to yield to public opinion and send an army to the frontier."

Unconfirmed reports from Monastir state that Boris Saraff, the Macedonian leader, was beheaded recently near that place by Turkish soldiers. Saraff has been so often reported slain in battle or executed by Turkish troops that the report is taken with much doubt. Nevertheless, it is admitted that if he has fallen into the hands of the Ottoman forces, he has undoubtedly been killed.

Villages in Flames. Most of the villages in the district of Melnik are in the hands of the insurgents. Many of the villages are in flames.

It is reported that 500 Turks have been killed with dynamite while fighting against a body of insurgents in the Kresna defile.

A dispatch from Monastir dated Sept. 16 says that kidnappers are busy at work. A soldier brought two Christian children to Monastir a day or two before the dispatch was sent, and sold them openly at a price equivalent to $1 apiece.

According to information received at revolutionary headquarters from Monastir, 120 persons perished in the flames of their burning villages near Rastoria. More than 1,200 bodies of women and children are said to be lying unburied in the fields and on the roadsides around that place.

KILLS WIFE OF THREE MONTHS

Husband Shoots Down Woman Who Refuses to Live With Him.

Kittanning, Pa., Sept. 22.—August Troutman shot and killed his wife at Aladdin, a mining town twenty-two miles south of this place. Mrs. Troutman left her husband's home and went to where two Italian brothers were living and was on the porch of their home when her husband went after her. She refused to return with him and he shot her through the heart. The couple were married three months ago. Troutman is under arrest.

UNIFORM QUARANTINE SYSTEM

West Indian Governments to Confer on the Subject.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 22.—All the West Indian governments are arranging for a conference in Barbados to consider the adoption of a uniform system of quarantine. Jamaica has been visited by severe earthquakes, the last one of which was general all over the island and was accompanied by loud subterranean rumblings.

KING EDWARD APPROVES SELECTIONS BY BALFOUR

Lord Selborne to Succeed Joseph Chamberlain as Secretary for the Colonies.

London, Sept. 22.—Although no official announcement of the appointments has yet been made, King Edward is reported to have approved the following selections by Premier Balfour for positions in the reorganized British cabinet:

Lord Selborne, First Lord of the Admiralty, to be Secretary for the Colonies, in succession to Joseph Chamberlain.

Austen Chamberlain, Postmaster General, to be Chancellor of the Exchequer, in succession to Charles T. Ritchie.

Mr. Brodrick, Secretary of War, to be Secretary for India, in succession to Lord George Hamilton.

Mr. Arnold-Forster, Secretary to the Admiralty, to be Secretary for War, in succession to Mr. Brodrick.

Premier Balfour's private secretary denies that the appointments have actually been made. It is known that Lord Milner, British high commissioner to South Africa, was tendered the colonial office, and the general opinion in official circles is that the delay is due to the fact that he still has the proposition under consideration.

It is stated unofficially that the Duke of Devonshire has definitely decided to support Premier Balfour's retaliation policy and that a majority of the Unionist free traders are likely to do the same, but speculations on this subject, like forecasts in regard to new ministers, have not received any solid confirmation.

WAS VICTIM OF A VICIOUS ASSAULT

William Percell Had Portion of Lower Lip Bitten Off by a Drunken Farm Hand.

William Percell, a man hired two weeks ago to work on Mrs. Mary Taylor's farm on Milton avenue, became intoxicated Sunday while on a visit to the city, and upon returning to the farm picked a quarrel with Fred Smith, another man employed on the farm. In the fight that ensued Percell bit off a portion of Smith's lower lip. The latter was brought to this city in terrible agony and placed in the care of Doctors Smith and Farnsworth who administered anaesthetics and dressed the wound.

Officers looking for Percell. The trouble was precipitated by Smith's remonstrance with Percell for not returning earlier to attend to his share of the milking. A warrant for Percell's arrest on the charge of mayhem has been issued and the officers scoured the country for him yesterday, but without success. Smith is resting easily, but there is some danger that blood poisoning will set in.

According to fugitives who have arrived at Rila from Djumala, a serious engagement has occurred at Pekini, near Melnik, sixty-five miles from Salonica, in which the Turks are said to have lost 500 men killed, including two colonels.

Most of the villages in the district of Melnik are in the hands of the insurgents. Many of the villages are in flames.

It is reported that 500 Turks have been killed with dynamite while fighting against a body of insurgents in the Kresna defile.

TREATY NOW DEAD

Diplomats Think That the Hay-Heran Treaty for the Canal Is Now a Dead Letter in Colombia by Non-Ratification

Washington, Sept. 22.—Diplomatic circles now consider that the Hay-Heran treaty is dead. Even the closest admirers of the treaty and supporters of the Colombian route admit that the hope for the treaty is now past and that if a canal is to be built across the Panama route a new treaty must be made with Colombia. No word has been received from Colombia today and it is said that unless the senate has happened out of brilliant ardor stamped in favor of the treaty it has passed out of existence by virtue of not being ratified.

KANSAS CITY CONVENTION NOISY

STRUCTURAL IRON WORKERS ARE NOT ALL HARMONIOUS.

NO SESSION IS HELD TODAY

Compromise Is Now Talked of Between Parks Element and Conservatives.

(Special by Scripps-Mellae.) Kansas City, Sept. 22.—There was no session of the convention of the International association of bridge and structural iron workers today. The committee on credentials was not ready to report and rumors were rife at the time fixed for the opening that an attempt would be made to oust the Parks delegates from their seats.

Official Bulletin. At noon an official bulletin announced that there would be no session today and that the first session would be tomorrow. No actual information is obtainable but it is thought that a compromise will be effected by the morning.

CORNER STONE IN EDGERTON LAID

New House of Worship for St. Joseph's Congregation in Edgerton.

The cornerstone of the St. Joseph's Catholic church was laid yesterday at Edgerton. The Very Rev. A. F. Schinner of Milwaukee had charge of the services, a dozen priests from neighboring cities assisting. The address was delivered by the Rev. Father Bosche of Milwaukee. There were exercises, a parade of Catholic societies, headed by the Edgerton Cornet band, escorting the visiting clergy to the church.

St. Joseph's congregation was organized in 1870, though services have been held with some regularity for a number of years previously. The first priest was the Rev. Father Butler, who was succeeded by Father Davine, Father Bosche, and the present pastor, Father Harlan. The congregation numbers about 75 families. The edifice is to be completed by Jan. 1, 1904, $14,000 being the contract price, without furnishings. The building will be of Menominee brick, 48x112 feet and surmounted by a tower 80 feet in height. About 4,000 people witnessed the ceremony yesterday.

Fort Is Wrecked. Mozambique, East Africa, Sept. 22.—An explosion of gunpowder and grenades occurred in Fort San Sebastiao. Many persons were killed or injured. The fort was wrecked. Further explosions are feared.

LABOR LEADERS DISCUSS THE MILLER CASE AT WASHINGTON

SALVATION CAVALRY INVADES MOUNTAINS

Soldiers of the Lord Run Across Band of Moonshiners, Who Attend Religious Services.

Prestonsburg, Ky., Sept. 22.—Shortly after leaving here Col. Holtz and his band of cavalry Salvation Army men got an insight into real mountain moonshining. They were looking for an audience and inquired of a boy if there was a crowd of people at any point near by. The boy said that down under the bluff on the creek there were a number of men and boys and the Salvationists left the main road and followed the path leading around the mountain.

Presently they heard two shots from a revolver and stopped, wondering if someone had fired at them. They looked ahead and saw a log cabin and men and boys running in every direction. They did not know the meaning of the situation until a guide explained that they were probably approaching a moonshine still and that the shots had been fired by the lookout to warn the operators of the approach of strangers.

After a short consultation Major White and the guide rode up to the cabin. No one was there, but they found a brand-new still in operation. Finally one man, who had remained near enough to recognize the intruders, seeing that they were the uniform of soldiers, returned and asked who they were. He called back his friends by ringing a bell. Services were held while the moonshiners stood about in groups. They had mistaken the Salvationists for revenue officers.

GAME WARDEN IN LAW'S CLUTCHES

W. J. McGee, a State Office Holder Under La Follette, Reported Arrested for Drunkenness.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 22.—W. J. McGee, of Oconto, a political lieutenant of Governor La Follette, is about to resign his office of game warden in order that he may not embarrass the administration. He was arrested in Shawano Thursday and confined in jail. He attempted to conceal his identity and begged to be liberated, but was locked up on the charge of being drunk and disorderly. He made such a strong plea that he was liberated the next day. He said that he would paralyze the service if it were known that one of the La Follette wardens had yielded to liquor.

STATE NOTES

The immigration bureau has decided that no person coming to the United States from any port in the Philippine islands is subject to a head tax.

The governor refused to commute the death sentence of the three Van Wormer brothers for the murder of their uncle, Peter A. Hallenbeck, of Kinderhook, N. Y.

Mountain Top hotel, on the summit of the Blue Ridge mountains, in Virginia, where Washington and Jefferson perfected their university plans, has been destroyed by fire.

Prevalence of trachoma in New York, over 100,000 cases of this disease of the eye having been reported, has resulted in the determination of the board of health to establish a hospital for its exclusive treatment.

While watching his brother land a fish out of Wolf river at Hammond, Ind., John Baker, 10 years old, fell in and was drowned. Hurrying home to get supper for his family, L. Mench of Hammond fell under an Erie train at Hegewisch and was cut to pieces.

Santa Fe passenger train No. 602 ran into the rear car of an extra freight train one mile west of Rocky Ford, Col., telescoping five cars of the freight train. A tank of oil exploded, setting fire to the wreck. Engineer John Maddigan was badly hurt. Mrs. E. L. Drake of Alva, Ok., was severely bruised.

Governor Taft has called the war department details of the franchise which is to be granted for furnishing power for various enterprises in Manila and elsewhere. He says the commission has surveyed the territory fifty miles from Manila and that 10,000-horse power may be developed from the water falls.

The case of Richard Canfield, alleged gambling-house-keeper of New York, came up on change of venue at the opening of the September term of the supreme court at Binghamton. Canfield asked permission to withdraw the plea of not guilty and demur to the indictment. Judge Sewell granted his request and the demurrer will be filed today to be argued later.

Police at Topeka, Kan., Sunday afternoon broke up a ball game at the fair grounds. A Sunday excursion had been run from Kansas City to Topeka and a local Topeka team and the Kansas City Schmeitzers were on the diamond with a large crowd present. Suddenly the police swooped down and took the players in charge. Later they were released under promise to abandon the game.

The Reinstatement of the Assistant Foreman Is Before the National Federation Board.

PRINTERS QUIET

The Columbia Typographical Union Defers Action by Using Much Diplomacy in Matter.

Washington, Sept. 22.—Members of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, in annual session here, refused to give out any statement in regard to proposed action in the case of Assistant Foreman W. A. Miller of the government printing office, who was reinstated by order of President Roosevelt, after he had been discharged because of his expulsion from the local Bookbinders' union. The whole trouble was discussed, but secrecy is maintained on any possible determination which may have been reached. Neither President Gompers nor any of the other committeemen would talk, referring simply to the official statement of the day's routine business.

Requests Dismissal. The Central Labor union of this city took supplemental action in the case of Miller and adopted strong resolutions which were sent to President Roosevelt urging Miller's dismissal. The union earnestly requests the president to modify his order of last July to Secretary Cortelyou, in which the president says there shall be no discrimination between union and non-union labor, and further petitions that "W. A. Miller, assistant foreman in the bindery of the government printing office, be dismissed to promote the efficiency of the service on charges made by the Bookbinders' union, which prove his unfitness for a public servant."

Give Aid to Miller. A new feature of the case occurred when President Whitmore of the Stereotypers' union, employed at the government printing office, petitioned President Gompers in favor of Miller, urging him not to give the support of the federation to the petition to President Roosevelt asking for Miller's removal, sent out as a memorial from the Central Labor union of this city, and which, it is said, President Whitmore characterized as a blunder.

President Whitmore is a life-long Republican and also one of the most prominent union men of the city. It is said that some other strong union men at the government printing office will join Mr. Whitmore in his stand.

Printers Postpone Action.

The president's attitude toward union labor came up before Columbia Typographical union, No. 101, in the form of a resolution criticizing his course in the Miller case. The purpose of the resolution was very similar to that adopted and sent throughout the country by the Central Labor union. Action on the resolution, however, was indefinitely postponed following a statement by a member that a conference on the subject was soon to be held between President Roosevelt and prominent labor leaders and that any action in the meantime would be inopportune.

COLOMBIA IS SILENT IN REGARD TO TREATY

State Department Gives Up Hope of Negotiating Pact for Canal on the Isthmus of Panama.

Washington, Sept. 22.—The canal situation is described at the state department as absolutely hopeless. No request has been received from Columbia for an extension of the prescribed period, nor is it likely that one would be granted, if asked.

Acting Secretary of State Adee explains that the communication recently submitted by Dr. Herran, the Columbian charge at Washington, expressed a desire on Columbia's part to continue the negotiation, even though the present treaty failed of ratification. To this note no reply was made.

The president and Secretary Hay are being kept in close communication with the state department regarding the canal advice from Bogota. Dr. Herran expected Secretary Hay to return to Washington this week, but since the receipt of Minister Beaupre's cablegram, indicating that he had abandoned hope, it is said at the state department there will be no occasion for the secretary's return until next month.

Admiral May Run for Mayor. Newport, R. I., Sept. 22.—There is possibility that Rear Admiral Luce may be prevailed upon to run for mayor of the city. His friends are discussing the advisability of it and may persuade the admiral to run.

CORN CROP, AND HOW TO HARVEST

WALLACE'S FARMER GIVES AGRICULTURISTS GOOD ADVICE.

TELLS OF STACKING SAME

Also Gives Good Rules for Feeding Young Stock—Much Nourishment.

It goes without saying that as much of this corn crop as possible should be harvested, that is, where the farmer has a market for his corn. In the shock. Where the farmer is well supplied with stock cattle the problem is a comparatively easy one. Let the corn grow just as long as you dare and avoid frost, something which cannot be told in words, but depends on the weather judgment of the farmer himself.

The Shocking. In shocking green corn be careful not to put it into large shocks. Last year many farmers, in harvesting this immature corn, put it in large shocks—say sixteen hills square—and, wet weather following, much of it molded, damaging seriously not merely the fodder but the corn. In our boyhood eight hills square was the standard for mature corn. This is all right for the eastern states, but is all wrong when corn is mature in the western states. Sixteen hills square is about the right kind of a shock in the longitude of Iowa, but eight hills square of green corn is big enough. This is another matter which must be regulated by the good judgment of the farmer. He must take into account the condition of the corn, the weather, and even the probable weather.

Good Weather. Bear in mind in harvesting this corn crop that every day of good weather counts; that when corn is shooting ears it has but little nutritive value in it. Four-fifths of the dry matter, as we have often told you, is put in the stalk after tassel time. The corns busy now storing up dry matter, and it should be allowed to stand just as long as possible, for everyday counts heavily.

Kind of Stock. The question of what kind of stock to feed it to is one that will come up for discussion afterwards. The farmers in the soft corn district had a good deal of experience last year with feeding soft corn. It is needless to say that they overestimated its feeding value. The softness, or the water in the corn, adds nothing to the feeding value; that depends on the dry matter. When the dry matter of corn is replaced by water, as it is in immature corn, the farmer must not expect a large percent of feeding value. Nevertheless, what dry matter there is in soft corn has, in our judgment, a greater feeding value proportionately than in sound corn, especially when given to young stock, for the reason that it has a larger percent of flesh formers in proportion to its total dry feeding value in this immature corn, and the farmer needs to make the most of it.—Wallace's Farmer.

COL. OTTO FALK ARRANGES DETAILS

Decides on Transportation for Troops to the Maneuvers at West Point, Kentucky.

Preparations are being made under the direction of Col. Otto Falk, of the First regiment of the Wisconsin national guard for the transportation of 750 men to West Point, Ky. on September 30th, for the first annual gathering of the militia of the central states for a series of field maneuvers to continue until October 12. Three trains will be required to carry the Wisconsin men.

General Bates will be in command of the encampment and 10,000 men will participate in the maneuvers. The tract chosen covers about 43 square miles, bounded on the north by the Ohio river, on the west by Otter creek, on the east by Salt river and Mill creek and on the south by a line running east from Gramhampton Mill creek.

West Point is 20 miles down the Ohio river, at the junction of Salt river, with the Ohio. It is in Hardin county, Kentucky, and has a population of about 5,000 people. West Point is on the old Louisville and Nashville turnpike, which became historical during the civil war. Old Fort Hill, erected during the war by the union forces, is on an elevation 300 feet above the river, and is in a fair state of preservation.

EDWIN SALSMAN BURIED SUNDAY

Former Janesville Boy, Killed in the Philippines, Buried in Milwaukee, with Honors.

The Milwaukee Sentinel has the following to say of the funeral of the late Edwin Salsman, who formerly resided in Janesville:

With the impressive honors of a military funeral, the body of Edwin P. Salsman, who was killed in the Philippines, two years ago, was interred in Forest Home cemetery, yesterday afternoon. The services were held at the home of Thomas Salsman, father of the deceased, 226 Tenth street, the Rev. Everett A. Cutler of Westminster Presbyterian church, officiating. When these services were over, the casket, wrapped in an American flag was escorted to the cemetery by a guard of honor from the Edwin P. Salsman post, of which the dead soldier was a member and from whom the post took its name. Gen. Charles King attended the funeral.

Private Salsman was shot through the leg at Laguran, on the island of Mindanao, Oct. 24, 1901. He was buried on the island, but several months ago the body was removed and shipped to the United States.

The funeral yesterday was attended by twenty veterans of the Philippine campaign, headed by President A. E. Wolff and Chaplain Joseph Kremer. The Rev. Mr. Cutler, who delivered a short address at the home, spoke highly of the deceased, basing his sermon on the words: "There is no discharge from the war of life." "The man who goes to a distant land to fight under his country's flag is one of the greatest of heroes," he declared.

At the grave a prayer was said by the president of the post, after which the chaplain read the farewell address. Then the firing squad gave the military salute of three volleys across the grave, taps were sounded and with bowed heads the veterans filed past the open grave each one dropping a sprig of evergreen upon the flag wreathed coffin, and the post dispersed.

The military pallbearers were August Dahlmann, John Luckel, Frank Wustak, Louis Jesse, Frank Vlerthaler and George Schroeder.

Edwin P. Salsman was born April 7, 1875, and enlisted June 16, 1898, in Company G, Second Wisconsin Volunteer Infantry. He participated in the expedition to Porto Rico and in the battle of Coamo. He was mustered out with this regiment, Nov. 9, 1898, but re-enlisted in Company D, Third United States Infantry. At the request of his father, he was honorably discharged Jan. 12, 1899, by a telegraphic order of the war department. Jan. 25, 1901, he again enlisted in Troop D, Fifteenth United States Cavalry, and it was as a member of this troop that he received his mortal wound.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Tuesday, Sept. 22, 1863.—Two great questions now before the world are the character of Jeff. Davis and his associates and the character of the king of Dahomey. ## SALE OF STATE LANDS DELAYED

TIME SET BY THE LEGISLATURE IS TOO EARLY.

POSTPONED UNTIL NOVEMBER

State Land Office is Unable to Get the List Prepared in the Time Scheduled.

The sale of state lands will not take place next month as intended by the legislature. B. J. Castle, chief clerk in the state land office, announced yesterday that owing to unlooked for delays in the preparation of the list of state lands to be sold this year, the sale cannot take place between October 15 and November 15, as contemplated by the act of the legislature, passed at the last session, which restores the lands to the market. The sale, however, will take place at a later date, probably in November and during the month of December. The list of lands to be sold is now in process of preparation, will be printed and distributed. It will not be ready for distribution, however, until early in November.

Black's First Orders. The first general orders of Gen. John C. Black, new commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, have been received at the Grand Army headquarters for Wisconsin at the capitol and will be distributed among the posts of the state. In the orders, General Black formally announces his assumption of command, announces that the national headquarters will be in the Memorial hall, Chicago, continues the regulations heretofore in force and announces the appointments of his members of staff.

WALKER WHITESIDE IN "WE ARE KING"

Small Audience Saw Versatile Actor in Play of the "Zenda"

King Type. "We Are King," a comedy with a decided Prisoner of Zenda flavor from the pen of Lieut. Gordon Kearn was presented at the Myers Grand, by Walker Whiteside and his company last evening. The single departure from the conventional "king and his double" plot is the "double," who in this instance happens to be an unsuccessful novelist of royal lineage—unsuspected by himself—who, in the prologue, is ousted by the members of his club in London and goes to the continent as a newspaper correspondent to write a series of romances of the principality of Kahlburg. Discovered in the gardens of the palace he is made a prisoner by the prime minister and at the proper moment placed upon the throne, the real ruler whom he resembles having been struck down by the husband of the Baroness Stanbach in a fit of jealousy.

The double role of King Hector and Gustavus Verner gives Walker Whiteside an opportunity to show his versatility and the situations in which he finds himself provide sufficient comedy material to sustain interest. There is a Princess Olivia of a neighboring principality to whom the king has been betrothed for financial reasons. She comes to the court of Gustavus Verner in the guise of a historian to see the man whom she is to wed. Verner, forgetful of the fact that "We are king," falls in love with her to the consternation of the court, and prime minister. After the first act this becomes the principal motive of the play, with the real king attempting to regain his crown as a secondary one.

Miss Wolstan was pleasing as the Princess Olivia and Miss Keys, in the minor part of "Julia," was also one of the best of the women in the cast. Miss Hardman made a satisfactory "Baroness Stanbach." Mr. Mitchell was fairly good in his characterization of the prime minister and the same may be said of Mr. Williamson in his portrayal of the gloating cripple, "Klass." Captain Brunner was the comedy character of the play and Mr. Lander was good in the part. The company was given three curtain calls after the second act. The audience was a small one.

A regular meeting of the Janesville Chapter, No. 69, O. E. S. will be held in Masonic hall Wednesday evening, Sept. 23d. Supper served at 6:30. Visiting members welcome.

The Great Battle Near Chattanooga.—The thoughts of all loyal people turn, today, towards General Rosecrans and his brave army. The battles of Saturday and Sunday were among the severest of the war. As usual we were outnumbered. It appears that the rebels have been permitted to mass their forces, 140,000 strong, against Rosecrans from the length and breadth of the confederacy, while we have been scattering ours towards Texas and Arkansas and Meade, with his army of the Potomac, has been perfectly quiet. If he had pressed Lee continually that general could have spared none of his troops; if the war department had had proper information of the movements of the enemy, it would not have allowed Grant's army to become scattered and furloughed.

WITH LINK AND PIN.

Gossip of Interest For Railroad Men.

North-Western Road. Passenger Agent Gleason calls attention to the fact that the "Link and Pin" heading of this column is a misnomer, as patent couplers have displaced the old fashioned apparatus and the "surgeon's helper" long ago disappeared from the yards. Mr. Gleason says that the passenger traffic all over the country at this time is something immense. He attributes it to the good times. The Chicago centennial celebration which begins on the 28th, is expected to materially increase the already large volume of business in this region.

The telegraph instruments at the North-Western roundhouse are being removed today. While no official notice has been given, it is understood that the company is about to grant a fifteen per cent. raise in pay to all telegraph operators on the system. This it is supposed, will commence with the September envelope which is not received until the middle of October.

The special for the Jefferson county fair will leave at 10:30 tomorrow morning. Many have already availed themselves of the excursion rates.

Even Talks.

People with all sorts of grievances bring their burdens of sorrow to the municipal judge's office. Many are persuaded to obey the twelfth commandment, or at least to refrain from bringing their neighbors into court. An instance occurred one day last week. A large heavy built man who appeared to be a German parentage, opened the desk of the door of the office and strode to the clerk's desk. He was evidently laboring under great excitement and his face was livid with rage.

With many words and exclamations he told Mr. Thorpe his story. A neighbor's children have been calling his children "Polacks." They weren't Polacks at all and he wanted to have the law on them.

Mr. Thorpe gravely heard him through and then asked him a question. If anyone should call you or one of your children an Irishman would you feel justified in prosecuting him in the courts? The visitor smiled confusedly but continued to grumble considerably about the attempt of the neighbor's children to place a blot on his escutcheon. Finally turned about abruptly and went out of the office.

LAW DECISIONS FOR LAYMEN
Recent Court Rulings That Will Interest the Busy Reader
Very Much.

Restraining Vegetation
In a Georgia case it was held that where a city council passed an ordinance prohibiting the running at large of cattle in its streets, but subsequently expended its operation indefinitely on the ground that the growth of weeds and grass was too luxurious for comfort, health and good appearance, one who was gored by a cow running at large in the streets would not have a cause of action against the city. The question might occur to some whether grass or cows on a city street was the more conducive to "comfort, health and good appearance," but this was a matter resting with the sound discretion of the city council, in whose hands such questions of expediency and taste had been placed by the inhabitants of the community. (Law Notes for August.)

Accident Insurance
A policy insured deceased against the effects of bodily injuries caused solely by external, violent or accidental means. Deceased was a strong, apparently healthy man, 58 years of age, who had never been sick, and accustomed to carry from 200 to 300 pounds without difficulty. Immediately after making a lift of a bar weighing from 350 to 400 pounds, he became sick and pale, his extremities became cold, and a cold perspiration stood out on his face and hands, and the exertion caused a violent dilation of the heart. Held, that the accident was within the terms of the policy. 72 Pacific Rep. (Washington, Judge Mount), 1028.

Railways
Because a traveller on a railway train has no ticket, that, in itself, furnishes no warrant for putting him off the train. Though he had no ticket the right is his to pay the fare in cash. The demand upon him must be either for a ticket, or for payment of the fare in cash, and if he offer to pay, the railway company ejects him at its peril. But, if a person, who is in the employ of a connecting railway company, and because of his employment is permitted to ride free on the train of the other company, and is detected in "scalping" tickets while on the train, it might possibly furnish justification to the conductor, in stopping the train and putting him off, even though he offer to pay the fare. 34 Southern Rep. (Louisiana, Judge Blanchard) 585.

Trespass on Lands
A person who enters upon the land of another and appropriates the timber thereon under circumstances justifying the conclusion that, if he did not know he was without right so to do, it was because he did not choose to know it, is a mere trespasser and depredator, and is liable in damages. 34 Southern Rep. (Florida, Judge Taylor) 592.

Criminal Law
When a party, suspected of crime, in any manner endeavors to evade or escape a threatened prosecution by flight, concealment or resistance to a lawful arrest, or other expost facto indication of a desire to evade prosecution, such fact may be shown in evidence as one of a series of circumstances from which guilt may be inferred. 34 Southern Rep. (Florida, Judge Taylor) 592.

Social At Carl Hanson's
A surprise party for Miss Mary Menzies took place at the home of Mr. Carl Hanson, 10 Delavan road, Saturday evening. A pleasant evening was spent in music, dancing and games.

THE STORY OF FATHER JOHN'S
An interesting history of fifty years. In 1848, Rev. Father John O'Brien, a noble man, came to Lowell, Mass., to do the master's work in St. Patrick's Parish. In 1854, Father John, as he was fondly known to his people, was attacked with a serious cold which, developing into a stubborn cough and affliction of the lungs, caused the greatest alarm for the health of the beloved clergyman.
Medical skill seemed unable to stay the progress of the disease. Finally, an eminent Specialist was consulted, who gave Father John a prescription to cure the cold and remove the lung trouble, as well as to build up and strengthen the body. The Clergyman took the prescription to the old drug store of Carleton & Hovey, Lowell, Mass., the firm by whom Father John's Medicine is prepared. The cough soon disappeared and his people rejoiced when he declared that he had been made as well and strong as ever.
Father John recommended the medicine to his parishioners and friends, and thousands were made well and strong by taking it. In getting this prescription they allways called for "Father John's Medicine," and so it was named by the people, and advertised—all with the approval and sanction of Reverend Father O'Brien, because he knew of its merit and desired that all who were ailing might benefit by its power to cure.

This old-fashioned wholesome remedy is unequalled as a body builder and tonic. It restores health and strength to all run down systems. Its gentle laxative effect strengthens the stomach and corrects the digestion. It drives out all impurities. It is a food nourishment, and contains only pure nourishment. It is not a patent medicine, and it is free from opium, morphine, or poisonous drugs in any form, which are found in the majority of patent preparations.
While it is not a "cough syrup" or "balm", nothing equals this prescription for coughs, colds, bronchitis, asthma, consumption, and all throat and lung troubles. It has a most soothing and healing effect, and at the same time builds up the body and makes strength.
We have permission to refer to the Sisters Superior at the following Homes and Hospitals where Father John's Medicine is in use: Sisters of Charity, St. John's Hospital, Lowell, Mass., Notre Dame de Lourdes Hospital, Manchester, N. H., Sisters of Mercy, St. Patrick's Orphanage, Manchester, N. H., and many others, the names of which we shall be pleased to furnish upon application. When you ask your druggist for Father John's Medicine remember that the $1.00 bottles contain three times the quantity of the 50 cent sizes. Father John's Medicine is for sale by the Badger Drug Co., cor. Milwaukee and River Sts.

FOOD CAUSE AND EFFECT.
The Effect:
Your great-grandfather was a hale and rugged man because his staff of life was natural food—whole wheat. That was before the white-flour-cruelty to the system—before sustaining parts of the whole wheat were removed in white flour milling. All about us today we see physical and mental weaklings whose pitiable condition is the result of eating unnatural foods—people with part of their bodies starving.
The Truth:
People with whole health eat natural food—sickly people eat pies, mushes, and white flour products which are unnatural foods because essential parts of the wheat have been removed and are not present in them. The natural food is Shredded Whole Wheat Blauit.
The Reason:
In it are contained the precise elements in the exact proportion required by nature for the complete nourishment of the body and mind—nothing added and nothing taken away—an undespoiled natural product.
The Proof:
To Natural Food Co. Niagara Falls, N. Y. Gentlemen: I was irritable and dull two hours after eating an unit for work. I gave up eating white bread, pies, and the like, and tried Shredded Wheat. In a single week I felt a great change in my system for the better. I have been using Shredded Wheat for about six months now and have splendid digestion, feel bright and alert after eating, and am physically stronger than I have been in fifteen years. You have a wonderful food.

SENATOR HATTEN SPEAKS

The following editorial from the Milwaukee Sentinel, speaks for itself. Senator Hatten was one of the governor's supporters throughout the session. He will not be accused of prejudice, and the statement he makes is characteristic of the man. It is about time for the governor to take account of stock and see where he is at. The good name of Wisconsin, as well as the reputation of some of the best men in the state, can not longer be assailed with impunity.

"Few men in Wisconsin have a higher standing in the public estimation than has Senator William H. Hatten, who for the past six years has represented Waupaca and Portage counties in the state senate. His legislative record has frequently been pointed to by the 'reform' press and by the agitators for the administration as a sort of certificate of character which guaranteed the genuineness of Governor LaFollette as a reformer. The manifest inconsistency between administration pretenses and practices was atoned for by the fact that Senator Hatten, Senator Stout, and one or two other senators, appeared to be fully in accord with the policies and politics of the executive department.

During the last session Senator Hatten was one of the members of the senate committee on assessment and collection of taxes, and as a committee associate of Senator John M. Whitehead, the chairman, is in a position to speak with knowledge of the transactions of that committee and also of legislation generally. If the facts given to the public in the address delivered by Senator Whitehead required special verification, no better or more authoritative testimony could be furnished than is contained in the printed statement of Senator Hatten, when he says:

"I have read the speech of Senator Whitehead and must say it is a true and fair statement of the troubles between the legislature and the governor. Much of what the senator says I know of my own knowledge especially about the organization of the senate in 1901—and I have no doubt about the truth of the rest. Senator Whitehead is a plain, honest man, and what his speech may lack in rhetoric is certainly made up in facts.

The charge made by Gov. LaFollette that the ad valorem taxation bill was held up by the senate committee is an impeachment of the honesty and integrity of Senators Hatten and Stout, two of the men who in the past have given the only element of respectability it possessed to LaFolletteism. Governor LaFollette, in attempting to achieve his personal ambitions, is casting reflections upon these good men who in all ways have attempted to carry out his legislative ideas."

THE COAL QUESTION.

Some two weeks ago, the Gazette published an editorial from the Chicago Tribune, on the coal situation in Chicago. The claim was made that the coal operators not only controlled prices at the mines, but dictated selling prices in the retail market.

In commenting on the article the Gazette endorsed the statements and said that in smaller towns the dealers were not restricted, and cited what was then supposed to be a fact, that coal sold in Delavan in June at $7.50. To this statement some of the local dealers objected, and correspondence with the Delavan dealers followed. These gentlemen claimed that they opened the seat at $8.00 and afterwards advanced to $8.50.

The Gazette was called to account for the $7.50 quotation. A representative of the paper had occasion to be in Delavan frequently during the summer, and while there in July noticed a load of coal on the street.

He inquired of a friend, what coal was worth, and the reply was,

"I don't know what it is worth now. I bought mine last month for $7.50. There was no occasion to misrepresent, and the statement was not questioned. The party was a responsible business man."

After the Delavan dealers claimed that their price had not been less than $8.00, a letter was written to the Delavan party and the following reply, dated Sept. 18th, received. "About the coal, I remembered telling you of buying my coal at $7.50, but when I came to pay for it, I found it cost me $8.00. I supposed at the time that all it cost was $7.50, but there were lots of Delavan people that got fooled just as I did."

There was evidently a misunderstanding and the opening price was $8.00 instead of $7.50. The Tribune editorial and the Gazette's comments, were criticisms on the methods of the coal producers' combine, which is regarded by the general public, as one of the worst in existence. It is only fair to the local dealers to say that the price of coal in Janesville is cheaper than the retail price in Chicago, when freight is added. The retail coal business is not a gold mine, and it is safe to say that the capital invested does not yield the returns of average business enterprises.

The Gazette maintains, however, that the operators' combine is unjust, and a detriment to both the dealer and consumer.

THE TILLMAN'S.

The Tillmans of South Carolina, are again before the footlights, as ex-lieutenant Jim Tillman is now on trial for the murder of N. E. Gonzales, editor of the Columbia, S. C. State.

The Tillmans have long enjoyed notoriety of an unsavory sort, and the family is noted for creating disturbances.

They have been mixed up in a number of murders, and the family history reads like a yellow covered novel. The murdered editor was shot in cold blood for publishing statements that aroused the spite of the lieutenant governor.

The trial is being watched with a good deal of interest, and it is doubtful if conviction will follow.

The Tillman family are one of the oldest in the state, and for years succeeded in running things to suit themselves.

Senator Den, known as pitchfork Tillman, has gained notoriety in the north by his speeches at Chattanooga, and other gatherings.

A threshing crew up in Jefferson county was surprised at supper the other night, to find that the bill of fare consisted of a sandwich tied with ribbon, one chicken croquette, one cheese ball, the size of a marble, and a button hole bouquet. They inquired for the cook, and discovered that the lady of the house was away, and that her sister from Chicago was presiding in the kitchen.

The St. Paul fair authorities provide a booth for checking babies, a young couple from Superior patronized the booth the other day and had quite an experience in locating their offspring when the check was presented.

Senator McGilvray is out with a denial of the charge made by Senator Whitehead that he was the cause of the hold up in organizing the senate in 1901. Senator Whitehead has behind him the record, and he is not in the habit of talking for effect.

Postmaster Kress, of Manitowoc, may feel slighted over the treatment of the governor, but he has plenty of company. That sort of a slight is no evidence of greatness and the chief executive has added nothing to his stature.

If wages have not advanced in proportion to the cost of living, why is it that the list of savings bank depositors has doubled in the last four years. This is a poor time for calamity howlers.

The Elkhorn fair spent more money in advertising in the Gazette, than the State fair spent in the entire press of the state. The State fair management has a good deal to learn about running a fair.

Facts are stubborn things, and Senator Whitehead is dealing in facts. His Beloit and Fond du Lac speeches are backed by a record that any man may read who is so inclined.

PRESS COMMENT

Eau Claire Leader: It looks now as if the whole sugar beet business as far as Wisconsin is concerned is but a pipe dream. The sugar trust is getting everything in the shape of a sugar factory into its possession and the immense fortunes to be made and the army of men to be employed are disappearing like the baseless fabric of a vision. Truly as the immortal exercise man nurtured beyond the Tweed remarks, "The best laid schemes of mice and men, gang aft agley."

Oshkosh Times: Mr. Bryan predicts that Tom Johnson will win a great victory in Ohio. The Hon. James K. Jones, it will be remembered, was also a great predictor.

Kenosha News: The papers many of which were sneering at the president for his "impetuosity" in ordering the American men of war to Beirut have been keeping very quiet since events have demonstrated that they were urgently needed.

Green Bay Gazette: King Peter will get around to the punishment of the murderers of his predecessor at about the same time Russia starts the evacuation of Macedonia.

Oshkosh Northwestern: To perpetrate an Irish bull, one might say that Professor Langley's flying machine is still in the air.

Madison Democrat: Despite an over supply of coal at the mines the price goes up. If a strike prevailed and a shortage existed the enhanced charge might be excused, but now, never.

Marquette Eagle and Star: It is possible that a summerless summer may be followed by a winterless winter.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Railroad Commissioner Thomas should drop the governor a line to the effect that he is prepared to hear and consider any confessions made by conscience stricken shippers who have benefited by discriminations.

WHAT HAPPENS IN ONE SECOND.

The following list of speeds has been carefully compiled by an authority who has devoted much time to the subject in order to ensure accuracy: In one second:—

- A snail travels  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch.
- A man walking, 4 feet.
- A fast runner, 23 feet.
- A fly, 24 feet.
- A fast skater, 38 feet.
- A carrier pigeon, 87 feet.
- A locomotive (60 miles an hour), 88 feet.
- A swallow, 220 feet.
- The worst cyclone known, 350 feet.
- The surface of the globe on sea level at the equator, 1,500 feet.
- The moon, 3,250 feet.
- The sun,  $5\frac{1}{2}$  miles.
- The earth, 18 miles.
- An electric current on telegraph wires, 7,000 miles.
- An electric current in copper wire armatures, 21,000.
- Light, 180,000 miles.

The discharge of a Leyden jar through copper wire (1-16 in diameter), 277,100 miles, which is said to have been the highest velocity measured.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION MEETS ON THURSDAY NIGHT.

IT HAS TWO PROPOSITIONS

Both Come from Chicago, and Will Employ a Goodly Number of Hands the Year Round.

On Thursday night the Business Men's association will have the opportunity of listening to two propositions from business firms who desire to come to Janesville and establish factories. Both propositions are well worth considering and both will employ anywhere from fifty to one hundred and fifty hands each the year round.

Good Prospects
The two concerns that are seeking locations are both from Chicago. Labor troubles and the difficulties in securing proper accommodations have forced many of the concerns of the Windy City to seek locations outside of Illinois. Janesville has the advantage in location and railroad facilities and hence has been selected.

One Concern
One of the two companies seeking location employs a hundred and fifty hands the year round and the other guarantees to employ not less than forty the year round to begin with. Both are factories that manufacture goods which are demanded by the public and they have orders for stock way ahead of their capacity the year round.

Third Factory
There is also a third factory that may be located here. The linen concern in which Mr. Don Farnsworth is interested. Mr. Farnsworth has no choice between Madison and Janesville except for facilities as regards soft water and he is making investigation to see if the water in Janesville is as soft as in Madison.

TINY HORSE PLAYS TRUANT

A Young Shetland Which Is Owned by J. C. Myers, Tires of Home,

J. E. Myers has a shetland pony at the Seven Oaks farm on the River road with a three months old colt not much larger than a good sized dog. On this farm the horses are kept in a pasture beyond the place and at 3 o'clock Monday evening the tenant heard a great disturbance in the field. He found, upon investigation, that the colt had vanished. At daylight, the next morning, he started out to hunt for the youngster and carefully searched the surrounding country but with no avail for the little equine had evidently left for parts unknown. About noon, Mr. Myers found him at one of the livery stables in the city. He had broken through the fence followed a passing team to the city.

DECLARE PUPILS ARE IMMORAL

Women Want Purity Taught in the Milwaukee Public Schools.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 22.—Mrs. W. J. Allen, head of the Purity league, in an address to the W. C. T. U., pleaded for a course in morality in the public schools. She thought cigarette pictures had much to do with spreading immorality among the children.

Mrs. Martha A. Bauman said that to her knowledge immorality of the most shocking character was prevalent in the public schools. She cited an instance where a 12-year-old girl had been subjected to gross indecencies. It was agreed that a direct appeal should be made to the school boards to have the young taught scientifically the truths which they were now left to learn in a way that was debasing.

Flood Closes Mills.
Marquette, Wis., Sept. 22.—Every sawmill in the city has been closed by high water in the Menominee river. Several of the mills are flooded and as a further rise is expected serious danger is feared. Sawmills at other points are in danger.

IN BALTIMORE, AT CONFERENCE

FOUR DELEGATES FROM WISCONSIN REPRESENT ODD FELLOWS

MEETING ENDS ON SATURDAY

Whitewater, Waupaca and Eau Claire Have Also Sent Well Known Men.

J. F. Hutchinson, past grand patriarch of the Rock River Encampment, left the last of the week for the Odd Fellows conference which is now being held at Baltimore.

Four Men
Three representatives went from Wisconsin beside Mr. Hutchinson, J. L. Fulton, also past grand patriarch from Whitewater, F. W. Woodworth, past grand master, from Waupaca, and F. A. Brant, past grand master from Eau Claire. Mr. Hutchinson and Mr. Fulton go as representatives of the encampments, Messrs. Woodworth and Brant as delegates from the subordinate lodges.

Lasts a Week
Sunday morning divine service was held at one of the Baltimore churches and the entire week will be taken up with the regular conference work coming to an end on Saturday when the delegates will return home.

'BEFORE THE GREAT JUDGE
Mary Francis Dooley

Mary Francis Dooley, aged 20 years, died at the home of her father, Thomas Dooley, in the town of Porter at ten o'clock last evening. The deceased was a graduate of the Janesville high school, class of 1902.

GOLF THIS WEEK; MATCHES TO END

Finals for the Baker Stein and Schaller Cup To Be Played This Week.

Poor weather and a rush of business has delayed the playing of the finals for the Benedict match for the Baker Stein. The contest now lies between H. R. King and Stewart McGiffen and the finals will be played sometime during the present week. An exciting match is looked forward to, as King is given a handicap of eight.

Three to Play for Cup

Three players are scheduled to play for the Schaller cup, E. O. Brownell, George Banner and Burns Brewer. The latter drew bye and will play the winner in the finals. It is expected that the match will come off this week and probably on Thursday.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL,"
"PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

(Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.)

"We were traders, and we fell into the hands of the Chinese," the taller man answered. "With their usual amiability they set to work to torture us. My companion's tongue they cut out at the roots, while, as I have said, they deprived me of my sight. After that they turned us loose to go where we would. We have wandered here, there and everywhere, living on what we could pick up, and dying a thousand deaths every day. It would have been better if we had died outright—but somehow we've come through. Can you take us to a place where we can procure food? We've been living on jungle fruit for an eternity. My foot wants looking to pretty badly, too."

"We'll do all we can for you," said Grantham. "That's if we can get you down to the ford, which is about five miles away."

"You'll have to carry me, then, for I'm too far gone to walk."

"I think it can be managed," said Grantham. "At any rate we'll try."

Turning to the little Shan he dispatched him with a message to Handiman, and when the other had disappeared, knelt down beside the tall man and set to work to examine his injured foot. There could be no doubt that it was in a very serious condition. Tramping through the jungle he had managed to poison it, and had been unable to apply the necessary remedies. Obtaining some water from the stream Grantham bathed it tenderly, and then bound it up as well as he could with his handkerchief.

"That's the best I can do for you for the present," he said. "We must leave it as it is, and when we get you to the station, we will see what else can be managed."

He looked up and saw the little man's eyes watching him intently. There was a look of almost dog-like affection in them for his companion, that went to the young soldier's heart.

"By Jove," he said, "I'm sorry for you fellows. You must have suffered agonies. The Chinese are devils. But yours is not the first case we have heard of. We only come up here for a month at a time, but the man we relieved told us a strange tale about another poor beggar who came into the station some two months ago. He had been wandering in the jungle, and was nearly at death's door."

The blind man gave a start, while the little man seized his hand and made a number of rapid movements upon it with his fingers.

"My friend wants to know if you are aware of that man's name?" he said. "We lost a companion, and he thinks that he may be the man. For heaven's sake tell us what you know. You have no idea what it means to us."

"Since you are so interested in him I am sorry to have to say that I do not know very much. You see he had very little to do with us. As I have said, he turned up while our predecessors were here. From what I heard about him from Gregory, he gathered that he was a tall, thin man, who had come through from Peking by way of Yunnan."

"Are you sure it was from Yunnan?"

"That's what they told me," said Grantham. "Since then I have heard that he was on his way from Peking to Burma, and that his coolies had robbed him of all he possessed."

"You don't happen to remember his name, I suppose?"

The blind man tried to ask the question calmly, but his voice failed him.

"As far as I remember his name was George Bertram," Grantham answered.

There was a pause for a few seconds, after which the blind man began again—

"He didn't tell you, I suppose, whether he had any money about him?"

"He hadn't a red cent," said Grantham. "The Chinese cleared him out. They lent him the money to get to Rangoon. I happen to know that because he cashed my friend's check in Blamo."

There was another and somewhat longer pause.

"You did not hear whether he had any precious stones in his possession?"

"Good gracious, no! From what they told me I gathered that the man hadn't a halfpenny in the world. Why should he have been likely to have had jewels? In point of fact I'm sure he hadn't, for I was given to understand he was about as worn-out a customer as could be found anywhere."

The blind man uttered a heavy sigh and sank back to his former position upon the ground.

An hour and a half later, just as the shadows of evening were drawing in, a party of Sikhs put in an appearance, bringing with them a dhooly, in which they placed the injured man. It was almost dark when they reached the station, where Grantham's superior officer was awaiting their coming.

"What on earth's the meaning of this?" he asked, as the cortege drew up before the bungalow. "Who are these men? And where did you find them?"

Grantham made his report, and then the wounded man was lifted out and carried to a hut at the rear of the main block of buildings. The little man watched everything with an eagle eye, as if he were afraid some evil might be practiced upon his companion. When the blind man had been placed on a bed, and his foot attended to as well as the rough surgery of the place would admit, Grantham did something he had not already done, and that was to ask them their names.

"My name is Kitwater," said the blind man, "and the name of my friend here is Codd—Septimus Codd. He's one of the best and staunchest little fellows in the world. I don't know whether our names will convey much to you, but such as they are you are welcome to them. As a matter of fact, they are all we have with which to require your hospitality."

Why it should have been so I cannot say, but it was evident from the first that Capt. Handiman did not believe the account the refugees gave of themselves. He was one of that peculiar description of persons who have an idea that it adds to their dignity not to believe anything that is told them, and he certainly acted up to it on every possible occasion.

"There's more in the case than meets the eye," he said, suspiciously; "and I fancy, if only we could see the bottom of it, we should discover that your two proteges are as fine a pair of rascals as could be found on the continent of Asia."

"I don't know anything about that," Grantham replied. "I only know that they were a miserable couple, and that I did the best I could for them. You wouldn't have had me leave them in the jungle, surely?"

"I am not aware I have said so," the other answered, stily. "The only thing I object to is your treating them as if they were martyrs, when in all probability they deserve all the punishment they received."

Grantham was too wise to carry the argument any further. He knew that when Handiman was in his present humor the best thing to do was to leave him alone in it. He accordingly returned to the hut where the two men were domiciled, and attended to their comfort, as far as lay in his power. His heart had been touched by their misery. He did not give as a reason for the trouble he took the fact that the face of the elder man reminded him of his own venerable father; it was a fact, nevertheless. For a week the unfortunate couple were domiciled at the ford, and during that time Grantham attended to their wants with the assiduity of a blood relation. Meanwhile Handiman scoffed and bade him take heed for the valuables, lest his new-found friends should appropriate them. He did not believe in honest gratitude, he declared, particularly where homeless wanderers in the Burmese jungle were concerned. At last, however, they were so far recovered as to be able to proceed on their way once more.

"We have to thank you for our lives, sir," said Kitwater to Grantham, when the time came for them to say good-by to the ford. "Had it not been for you we would probably be dead men now. I don't know whether we shall ever be able to repay your kindness, that is with Allah, but if the opportunity should ever arise you may be sure we will not neglect it. Whatever we may be now, you may take it that we were gentlemen once. There's just one favor I should like to ask of you, sir, before we part."

"What is it?" Grantham inquired. "I want you, sir, to give me a letter of introduction to the gentleman in your regiment who looked after the stranger you told me of, when he came here out of China. I've got a sort of notion in my head that even if he is not our friend, that is to say the man we are searching for, he may happen to know something of him."

"I will give you the letter with pleasure," Grantham replied. "I am sure Gregory will be only too pleased to help you as far as lies in his power."

The letter was accordingly written and handed to Kitwater, who stowed it away in his pocket as if it were a priceless possession. Then, when they had bade their protector farewell, they in their turn set off along the track that Hayle had followed two months before, and in due course arrived at Blamo. Here they presented the letter they had obtained to Capt. Charles Paumefort Gregory, who, as may be supposed, received it with manifest astonishment.

"Well," said he, "of all the stories I have heard since I have been in the east, this is the most extraordinary. I thought that other chap was about as unfortunate a beggar as could well be, but you beat him hollow at every turn. Now, look here, before I go any further, I must have my friend with me. He is the man who discovered the other chap, and I'm sure he would like to hear your story."

Dempsey was accordingly summoned, and his wonderment was as great as his friend's had been.

"Now," said Gregory, when Dempsey had been made familiar with the other's story, "what is it you want to know about the man we picked up? Ask your questions, and we'll do the best we can to answer them."

In reply to Kitwater's questions, Gregory and Dempsey described, as far as they were able, the appearance of the man whom they had helped. The schedule was in a great measure satisfactory, but not altogether. There were so many English in Burma who were tall, and who had dark eyes and broad shoulders. Little Codd leant towards his companion, and, taking his hand, made some signs upon it. "That's so, my little man," said Kitwater, nodding his head, approvingly. "You've hit the nail on the head." Then, turning to Gregory, he continued: "Perhaps, sir, you don't happen to remember whether he had any particular mark upon either of his wrists?"

Gregory replied that he had not noticed anything extraordinary, but Dempsey was by no means so forgetful.

"Of course he had," he answered. "I remember noticing it for the first time when I pulled him out of the ford and afterwards when he was in bed. An inch or so above his left wrist he had a tattooed snake swallowing his own tail. It was done in blue and red ink, and was as nice a piece of work as ever I have seen."

"I thank you, sir," Kitwater replied, "you've hit it exactly. By the living thunder he's our man, after all. Heaven bless you for the news you have given us. It puts new life into me. We'll find him yet, Caddy, my boy. I thank you, sir, again and again."

He held out his hand, which Dempsey felt constrained to shake. The man was trembling with excitement.

"I tell you, sir," he continued, "that you don't know how we loved that man. If it takes the whole of our lives, and if we have to tramp the whole world over to do it, we'll find him yet!"

"And if I'm not mistaken, it will be a bad day for him when you do find him," put in Gregory, who had been an observant spectator of the scene. "Why should you hate him so?"

"How do you know that we do hate him?" Kitwater asked, turning his slightest face in the direction whence the other's voice proceeded. "Hate him, why should we hate him? We have no grudge against him, Caddy, my boy, have we?"

Mr. Codd shook his head gravely. Not they certainly had no grudge. Nothing more was to be gleaned from them. Whatever their connection with George Bertram or Gideon Hayle may have been, they were not going to commit themselves. When they had inquired as to his movements after leaving Blamo, they dropped the subject altogether, and, thanking the officers for the courtesy shown them, withdrew.

Their manifest destitution, and the misery they had suffered, had touched the kindly white residents of that far off place, and a subscription was raised for them, resulting in the collection of an amount sufficient to enable them to reach Rangoon in comparative comfort. When they arrived at that well-known seaport, they visited the residence of a person with whom it was plain they were well acquainted. The interview was presumably satisfactory on both sides, for when they left the house Kitwater squeezed Codd's hand, saying as he did so:

"We'll have him yet, Caddy, my boy, mark my words, we'll have him yet. He left in the Jemadar, and he thinks we are lying dead in the jungle at this moment. It's scarcely his fault that we are not, is it? But when we get hold of him, we'll—well, we'll let him see what we can do, won't we, old boy? He stole the treasure and sneaked away, abandoning us to our fate. In consequence I shall never see the light again; and you'll never speak to mortal man. We've Mr. Gideon Hayle to thank for that, and if we have to tramp round the world to do it, if we have to hunt for him in every country on the face of the earth, we'll repay the debt we owe him."

Mr. Codd's bright little eyes twinkled in reply. Then they shook hands solemnly together. It would certainly prove a bad day for Gideon Hayle should he ever have the ill-luck to fall into their hands. Two days later they shipped aboard the mailboat as steerage passengers for England. They had been missionaries in China, so it was rumored on board, and their zeal had been repaid by the cruellest torture. On a Sunday in the Indian ocean, Kitwater held a service on deck, which was attended by every class. He preached an eloquent sermon on the labors of the missionaries in the far east, and from that moment became so popular on board that, when the steamer reached English waters, a subscription was taken up on behalf of the sufferers, which resulted in the collection of an amount sufficient to help them well on their way to London as soon as they reached Liverpool.

"Now," said Kitwater, as they stood

English rain pouring down upon them, wetting them to the skin, "what we have to do is to find Gideon Hayle as soon as possible."

GOVERNOR YATES IS A CANDIDATE

IS READY TO MAKE SACRIFICE

Declares It the Duty of Every Citizen to Respond to the Call of His Constituents Irrespective of His Personal Desires.

Jacksonville, Ill., Sept. 22.—Richard Yates is a candidate for re-nomination. It was not, he explained, because he wanted the job again, but because he felt it was his duty to his fellow citizens of Illinois. Also because of the encouragement given him by the Republican convention of his fellow citizens of Morgan county, whom he was addressing. Then 124 of the 175 of the last named fellow citizens proceeded still further to encourage him by voting for a resolution asking him to be a candidate.

It is thought that Yates probably will have ten delegates to the state convention, unless a long time is to intervene before they are chosen and instructed. Some other Morgan county man may think he wants a place on the state ticket, as treasurer, for example, and then there might be trouble in putting up a delegation to strive for the re-nomination on the grounds of public duty, not personal ambition.

Means a Sacrifice.
The governor argues that the position he now holds means a sacrifice of health, money, and comfort. "But," said he, "in spite of all this, there is a conscientiousness about it; an inspiration about it, and, I repeat, every man must offer himself for the public service, and I am glad you encourage me to go at it again."

The convention was called simply to nominate a candidate for county commissioner. It selected no delegates to the next state convention, but the governor seized on the occasion to launch his campaign from his own county, as he did in 1899, so resolutions were prepared, which, after giving four lines of praise of the administration of President Roosevelt, went into laudation of that of Richard Yates.

Proud of Governor.
"We are proud," said they, "of the record made by our worthy Morgan county fellow citizen, Richard Yates, in the discharge of his duties as governor of the State of Illinois."

Then, as reason for that pride, the resolutions asserted that the governor had repressed lynchings and mob rule, had abolished the convict labor law, had striven for a state civil service law, had enforced economy and good service in all branches of the state government, and hence, "in spite of the malignings of an unrepentant press, the republicans of Morgan county have confidence in the continued success of his administration and emphatically declare in favor of his re-nomination."

Why He is a Candidate.
Gov. Yates seeks another term, judging by the composite explanation given in his speech to the convention, in his official typewritten announcement of candidacy, for reasons as follows:

Because Chicago's "newspaper trust" is against him.
Because every man ought to offer himself for public service in the highest office for which he is qualified, no matter at what cost or personal sacrifice.

Because he believes he has been a good governor; that the state of Illinois needs him in the executive office.

Believes in Illinois.
And finally—perhaps chiefly—because he said four years ago that Illinois is a "royal realm," a "majestic empire" and "a republic in itself," and still persists in the opinion.

On this platform the governor intends to go up and down the state from now until the next state convention, demanding and pleading for re-nomination. He will be his own campaign manager and campaign committee. His headquarters will be in Springfield. Auxiliary headquarters will be established soon in Chicago, where trusted friends, probably under command of Col. J. H. Strong, will look after his interests.

TRIPLETS ARE NOW TWENTY-ONE

Pretty Michigan Girls Celebrate Anniversary of Their Birth.

Buchanan, Mich., Sept. 22.—Dimple, Daisy and Dot Pedden, known as the prettiest triplets in the world, celebrated their twenty-first birthday anniversary Sept. 21, at their home in this place. The three sisters are brunettes, with dark eyes, wavy hair, clear complexions and rosy cheeks. They are witty, well educated and have a host of admirers. The girls received gifts and greetings from many of their friends.

STRONG EVIDENCE OF FAITH

Peoples' Drug Co. and King's Pharmacy Guarantee That Hyomel Will Cure the Worst Case of Catarrh in Janesville.

When one of the most reputable concerns in Janesville guarantees that a medicine will effect a cure or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes as to the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that they are selling Hyomel, the treatment that has made so many remarkable cures of both acute and chronic catarrh in Janesville and Janesville and vicinity.

Hyomel is not a pill nor is it a liquid that has to be taken with a tablespoon or wineglass. Just breathe it by the aid of an inhaler that comes in every outfit and benefit will be seen from the first treatment.

It destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone. It cures catarrh of the head and throat, or of the stomach, liver and kidneys. Wherever mucous membrane contains catarrhal germs, there Hyomel will do its work of healing. When using this treatment the air you breathe will be found like that on the mountains high above the sea level, where grow balsamic trees and plants which make the air pure by giving off volatile antiseptic fragrance that is healing to the respiratory organs.

A complete Hyomel outfit costs but $1.00, and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomel for several weeks treatment.

Remember that if Hyomel does not cure you, King's Pharmacy or Peoples' Drug Co., will refund your money. This is a good time to cure catarrh by this natural method and prevent catarrhal colds that are so common at this season.

Invincible Travis.

Golf Champion Now In Rare Form & The British Invaders.

There is no doubt whatever in the minds of American golfers that Walter J. Travis is now playing the greatest game of his career. Travis vindicated himself by recently winning the national championship title at the Nassau Country club, Glen Cove, N. Y., for the third time and later achieved added distinction by leading the American team that recently defeated the contingent of Englishmen now playing in this country. Travis, as is well known, was captain of the victorious team and performed what many followers of the game deemed impossible when he vanquished the British captain, John L. Low.

Facts regarding the players of the Cambridge-Oxford golf team now playing in this country may be of interest, although the previous work of these men is more or less known. All of the team, with the exception of Beveridge and Bramston, who are undergraduates, are in the professions and business.

John L. Low, who is the captain of the team, is a member of the Royal and Ancient of St. Andrews and in every respect a leader in the game. He has figured prominently in the British amateur championships. In 1897 in the semi-final Low was put out by James Robb on the twenty-first hole. He was also in the same final the next year, and after a twenty-one hole match Low had to finally succumb to the late F. G. Tait, the subsequent winner. His most brilliant championship performance was in 1901, when he was runner up to H. H. Hilton, who won by only one hole. In this year's championship Low was defeated by S. A. Gillon.

Next to Low, Norman Hunter has perhaps the most brilliant record of the guests. In 1901 he won the silver medal at St. Andrews with 85 and in the Oxford and Cambridge match two years ago, when captain of the "dark blues," he beat Bramston, the Oxford captain, by 2 up. In the 1901 championship he beat the noted "swiper," Edward Blackwell, by 1 up in the second round, losing in the next to Low, but only by 1 up. The two therefore seem close together in class.

T. M. Hunter, in the same championship, beat D. P. Ramsay by 6 up and 4 to play in the first round, but the winner faded away through the instrumentality of H. S. Colt in the next. The two, Hunter and Ramsay, need not be followed further in their performances, and the Ellis brothers, who are from St. Andrews, are with them in the championship class.

The youngest members of the Oxford and Cambridge forces are both very strong players and either may within a year or two be hailed as the British amateur champion. Beveridge, in the last amateur, won a splendid match from H. H. Hilton, for, after being 2 down at the turn, he grasped the victory on the nineteenth hole. This was in the third round, Beveridge losing in the next to Maxwell, the present champion, by 3 up and 2 to play.

As a further indication of the "winning ways" of the young Oxonian, he was 13 up in the varsity match of 1902 and 12 up the year before, not playing this year.

Bramston, as has been told, was beaten 2 up in 1901 by Norman Hunter, but he was 12 up in 1902 and 9 up this year. He made his first appearance in the amateur championships in 1900, when his marvelous drives and brassie plays were the sensation of the competition.

ECZEMA A Holy Horror

The agonizing torture of this itching, burning disease has at last been conquered. We have secured the selling privilege in this city for a medicament that not only relieves the awful itching and burning sensation of this terrible disease, but roots it all out of the skin entirely, leaving a clear, smooth, healthy covering for the body. Conclusive facts indisputable in every particular, have been presented to us, proving beyond the per-adventure of a doubt, that Eczema, Eczema of Infants, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Ring Worm, Scald Head, Pimples, Barber's Itch, Milk Crust, Dandruff, Itching Piles, and all diseases of the skin and scalp can be quickly and permanently cleaned out of the skin by

The D. D. D. Remedy.

"About five years ago I noticed a slight eruption on my limbs, but in a very short time it was a sight to behold, from my head to my feet, and my nights were terrible. I was simply on fire. I tried a number of doctors here in this city, but with absolutely no results aside from easing the burning pain a little. A friend of mine who had been cured of a very bad case of Eczema by the D. D. D. Remedy advised me to try it, which I did, feeling good results from the first. I have been using the D. D. D. Remedy for about three months, using in all, about fifteen bottles, and today I am a well man. I also had dandruff in its worse form, and found the D. D. D. Remedy to be a wonder in curing this disease."

F. M. NICHOLS,

Moore Apartment House,

James St., Syracuse, N. Y.

The D. D. D. Prescription comes in a sealed bottle with authentic label on each bottle; it is a liquid applied externally, does not grease nor will it stain or discolor the most delicate wearing apparel.

This prescription has our unqualified indorsement. For a considerable period of time we have been recommending it with most astonishingly effective results. The cures already effected are having a wide-spread influence in this community. If you have a skin affection, come and inquire about the D. D. D. Remedy. It will be the means of making you a happier human being.

PATTERN ASSORTMENT IS COMPLETE NOW : : :

THE selection of a Suit, Overcoat or Trouser now in the tailoring department of the T. J. Zeigler Clothing Co. is especially advantageous for several reasons.

First the rush season has not commenced and your order will receive the prompt attention of a competent force of tailors and the services of a cutter whose ability has been demonstrated during the Spring Season. He cuts clothes and cuts them right. The patterns of cloths, exclusive, every one, no two alike, are more complete now than they will be after the rush starts.

Every man knows now as to his needs for fall and winter and he will best consult his own interests by placing an early order.

An absolute guarantee goes with every garment turned out from this department. We would not permit an unsatisfactory job to leave the building, you are safe here.
